

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for connecting a television interphone monitor system including at least one television interphone 5 monitor connected via internal communication lines and a matrix selector with at least one entrance panel, and with at least one interface unit to an E concierge station via a communication network selected from the group consisting of dedicated network, public network and the Internet.

10